ПРЕДИСЛОВИЕ

В VII часть „Антологии литературы для баяна" включены произведения советских композиторов, созданные в 70-х годах. Можно с уверенностью констатировать, что в этот период произошло окончательное утверждение современного многотембрового готово-выборного баяна. Значительно раздвинулись образно-эмоциональные горизонты композиторского самовыражения, баяну стали доверяться наиболее серьезные и сокровенные замыслы авторов. Намного разнообразнее становятся средства музыкальной выразительности. В баянной музыке начинает применяться додекафонная техника письма, необычные очертания обретает фактура, появляются колоритные сонористические краски.

В то же время продолжает развиваться и обогащаться народно-национальное начало: композиторы по-новому, стилистически свежо воспроизводят картины характерного народного быта современной русской деревни, своеобразие гуцульских карпатских наигрышей, донского казачьего фольклора, затейливых болгарских ритмов.

Все представленные в настоящем издании авторы – баянисты, в совершенстве владеющие многообразными средствами современного баяна. Особенно значительной вехой в развитии баянного искусства стала Третья соната Вл. Золотарёва, в корне изменившая сложившиеся к тому времени представления о возможностях баяна как камерно-академического инструмента и заметно повлиявшая на последующее творчество композиторов в этой области.

Включенные в VII часть Антологии произведения относятся к числу наиболее репертуарных сочинений, нашедших широкое применение в концертной, конкурсной и педагогической практике.

FOREWORD

Part Seven of our „Anthology of Compositions for Button Accordion" contains selections from this country's accordion music of the seventies. That decade saw the definitive consolidation of position of the new-type bayan – the multi-timbre fixed-and-freebass button-key accordion. The modernized accordion came to be used as a vehicle for expression of a wide range of most profound thoughts and feelings, with expressive devices becoming ever more varied and refined. Creative musicians, writing for the instrument, started making extensive use of dodecaphony, sonoristics, and other textural innovations.

At the same time, composers went on to draw on the wealth of musical folklore. They succeeded in reflecting, in a new manner, the daily round of the contemporary Russian country-folk, the originality of the Carpathian Guzul music-making, of the Don Cossack melopoeia, of the intricate Bulgarian rhythms.

All the composers presented in this volume are professional accordionists, all of them are perfect performers. Especially significant, as regards both the development of the art of playing the instrument and the enrichment of the relevant repertoire, is the Third Sonata by Vl. Zolotaryov, a splended piece of chamber music, radically novel in respect of the technique of accordionistic writing; its influence makes itself felt in quite a few accordion compositions brought into existence in the seventies and eighties.

The works included in the present edition are frequently played in the concert hall as well as in the classroom; you will also find them on the programmes of a number of national and international performers' competitions.

Zolotaryov, Vladislav Andreyevich (1942-75), composer. Graduated from the class of N. A. Lesnoi (button accordion) at the Magadan Secondary School of Music in 1968. Khrennikov (at the Moscow Conservatoire, 1971-72). – An oratorio (Monument to the Revolution); compositions for symphony orchestra and for chamber orchestra; string quartets; vocal music. – His accordion works are justly considered exceptionally important factors in the making of a repertoire of original compositions for the multi-timbre fixed-and-freebass button-key accordion.

Zubitsky, Vladimir Danilovich (b. 1953), composer, performer. First prize at the „World Cup" International Competition in Helsinki (1975). Graduated from the class of V. V. Besfamilny (button accordion) at the Kiev Conservatoire in 1976, from the class of M. M. Skorik (composition) thereat in 1977, and from the class of V. B. Gnedysh (conducting) in 1979. Since 1958, accordion teacher at the musical schools of different cities of the USSR. Since 1970, Instructor (in accordion playing) at the 3rd Moscow Region Secondary School of Music in the town of Electrostal. Soloist on the staff of MOSCONCERT (since 1975). – Compositions for Russian folk instruments orchestra, vocal music, numerous concert and instructive pieces for button accordion.
